Very recently I woke up in the morning with the chorus to a song going round and round in my head. I'm sure it has happened to you. Some people call it an ear worm as you can't seem to leave it behind. I gave in and started to sing what I could remember,

Lean hard Lean on the everlasting arms Lean hard Lean on the everlasting arms

And then got on with the day not then knowing what a challenging time lay ahead with family turmoil that stretched us beyond our limits so we had to lean hard on the everlasting arms. We were clearly being prepared to look for help in the only one trustworthy to support us in doing what we felt led to do. When I later looked for the song, it turned out to be Lou Fellingham's Lean Hard (everlasting arms).

Here's how it goes:

He lavishes grace as our burdens grow greater,
He sends us more strength as our labours increase to added afflictions, He offers more mercy to multiplied trials He multiplies peace.

When we have exhausted our store of endurance
When our strength has failed and the day is half done When we've reached the end of our earthly resources Our Father's full giving is only begun Our Father's full giving is only begun.

His love has no limits; His grace has no measure His power has no boundary that's known unto men for out of His infinite riches in Jesus He giveth and giveth and giveth again He giveth and giveth and giveth again.

You lead me beside still waters Your goodness restores my soul I know that you'll never leave me I know that you won't let go.

We've proved yet again how true the advice is when under pressure to lean hard on the everlasting arms.
